

Today

Again, Lindbergh
Zaro, and a Turtle
Great Rome, Her Birthday
Wrong, Mr. Shaw
By Arthur Brisbane

The brain power of man beams to stand still. The civilized world today is far below the intellectual average of Athens in Pericles' day.
But science goes ahead and will gradually drag us up with it.
Flying is the new, great feat of science.

You see today pictures of Lindbergh and his wife in containing for high air flying, much like Esquimaux costumes, but actually electrically heated flying suits.

You know the latest Lindbergh achievement, crossing the continent in 14 hours and 45 minutes flying over 10,000 feet high.

Lindbergh, warned of storms, said, "We expect to fly high enough to miss the storms."

High up in the air, no storms.
Deep in the ocean, no waves, and not very deep in either direction. Up a few miles a gentle breeze caused by the earth's movement moves always toward the East.

Flying only 10,000 feet up, Lindbergh could not see the towns over which he passed.
This interests army officers of the Victorian era, who think anti-aircraft or coast defense guns will be useful in future wars.

Zaro Agha, of Constantinople, is 126 years old; his grandson, 100 years.

The American Anti-Alcoholic Society will exhibit them here as "proof of the benefit to be derived from total abstinence."

Everything that encourages temperance is useful. Anti-Alcoholic Society might exhibit with its Turkish gentlemen, who obey the laws of Muhammed, one of the 900-year-old turtles from the Galapagos Island, who also drink no alcohol.

It isn't what you drink or don't drink but what you amount to that counts.

As Francis Bacon says, "A man is what he knows."

Zaro Agha and the Galapagos turtle don't know much.

Yesterday was celebrated the anniversary of the founding of the American League.

Parley Ends, Now Limiting the Navies of U. S., Britain and Japan

London, April 22 (AP)— Representatives of the five dominant naval powers of the world, America,
Great Britain, Japan,
France and Italy, today affixed their signatures to an epoch-making treaty, limiting and reducing the navies of three of them, and restricting the navies of the other two.

Henry L. Stimson, American Secretary of State, and his colleagues on the American delegation, were the first to sign the historic document. M. Briand, French Foreign Minister; J.
Ramsey MacDonald, British Prime Minister, and Admiral Giuseppe Stenot of Italy with him.

POISON PENMAN
SAYS 'GUILTY'

Charles Gannett, Back Bay
"poison pen writer," who recently staged a suicide hoax, in Suffolk Superior Court today pleaded guilty to one count of an indictment charging him with intent to extort.

According to the indictment, on January 22, Gannett sent to Mary Ryerson Post, now Mrs. Donald McKay of Exeter st., "printed communications."

Sergeant Walter French told Chief Judge Hall that Gannett had written many other letters to residents of Boston.

Gannett was captured after a youth named Allan Burke had been taken into custody for writing
"poison pen" letters which terrified many women and girls of the Back Bay.

CONVICTS RUSHED OUT OF PERIL

Columbus, O., April 22 (AP)—Fire broke out late today in the E and F cell blocks in the Ohio penitentiary, scene of last night's conflagration, in which 317 convicts were killed. The Columbus fire department was summoned to the prison.

The fire was adjoining the scene of last night's blaze and first reports were that it was started by a spark from the old fire. Many prisoners were in E and F blocks. They were not in cells and penitentiary guards and soldiers made haste to move them out to safety.
Smoke was rolling from the roof of the E and F section.

The fire was controlled with chemicals.

Columbus, O., April
22—An official order against their release resulted in 317 convicts dying in their cells in the Ohio Penitentiary fire, it was testified today at the investigation of the disaster.

Thomas Watkinson,
the guard, suspended because he refused to turn over keys to the cell blocks to other guards, testified that Capt. John Hall, of the penitentiary night control, commanded him not to open the doors.

DEAD AND INJURED IN HUNDREDS LIE IN PATH OF PRISON FLAMES

Firemen battling the blaze in cell blocks at the Ohio State prison in Columbus, as prisoners are held back by machine guns mounted on prison walls. The screams of the suffering convicts were heard above the noise of fire fighting equipment. Hundreds of Columbus citizens volunteered to aid firemen and police. (Associated Press telephoto.)

Doctors and firemen worked for hours on the grass of the prison yard, using artificial respiration in an attempt to save lives of the convicts, who were overcome by smoke. (Associated Press telephoto.)

TELEPHONE GIRL DIES IN CRASH

New Haven, Ct., April 22 (INS)—Miss Dorothy Costigan, a telephone operator, was instantly killed and Walter R. Anderson, a telephone lineman, was critically hurt here today when Anderson's auto struck a horse-drawn milk cart owned by the New Haven Dairy Co. The milk driver escaped unhurt though his horse was killed.

Ohio Penitentiary Built to House 1500, Had 4300

Columbus, O., April 22 (INS)—Penitentiary, the scene of yesterday's fire, which claimed more than 300 lives, was built in 1890 and was designed to house only 1500 men. A roll call yesterday showed the total enrollment was 4300. The prison covers about five acres square, within a stone's throw of downtown Columbus. Within the prison walls are a score of buildings, including eight cell blocks.

AMERICAN IS HELD IN MEXICO

Washington, April 22 (INS)—Dr. George Edward Purnell of Snow Hill, Md., was kidnapped near Ciudad Juarez, Mex., April 20, the State Department was advised today by American Consul Raleigh A. Gibson at Guadalajara. Mexican authorities have been notified to pursue his captors.

HOOVER CALLS FOR ECONOMY

Washington, April 22 (AP)—President Hoover has informed congressional leaders that the omission of the budget shows a treasury deficit for the next year between $20,000,000 and $30,000,000. In a letter to Chairman Jones of the Senate appropriations committee and Chairman Wood of the House appropriations committee the President warned "there is cause for real alarm."

The annual procedure of writing a letter of warning to the congressional leaders in charge of the nation's purse indicated Mr. Hoover's concern over a situation which only a few days ago he spoke of optimistically. At that time he forecast a surplus for next year of about $100,000,000.

Ziegfeld Calls Nose Factor of Beauty

Hollywood, April 22 (INS)—Of all the beauty, charm and talent of American womanhood, "a good nose," said Ziegfeld, "is perhaps the most important feature a girl can have." Eyes, hair, complexion and figure are vital, of course. A beautiful mouth is not absolutely necessary. But her chin is second in importance to her nose. "Good legs are rare, but they are not an important because of the way we dress girls now. As a matter of fact, most girls are knock-kneed. But the present styles, whether for the theater or for ordinary wear, are designed to cover up that fact."

Fine Girl for Sale of Beer to Agents

Providence, April 22 (INS)—Beatrice, 18, of Providence, in Federal court today was fined $10 and costs after being found guilty of possessing 27 cases of beer. The girl who told the court she works in Boston, was arrested after she had sold Federal agents on glasses of beer in a cafe at Oakland Beach, R. I.

Italian Envoy Hit on Head With Stone

Budapest, April 22 (INS)—Signor Aloisi, Italian minister in Hungary, was injured in the head today when he was struck by a stone while riding in his automobile near Budapest.

CHILDREN PREY OF DRUG RING

New York, April 22 (The "rings" of the underworld are preying on the school children of America. These are the children of drug addicts. In some instances, they have succeeded in spilling the lives of these children. The situation is appalling. This startling declaration was made by U. S. Atty. General W. Amiel speaking at the monthly meeting of the Central Brooklyn Middle Club. Amiel said his bureau scarcely a day passed without complaints reaching his office from parents who complained their children had been approached by drug peddlers. Today, in the real estate columns of the Classified Ads, one will find scores of opportunities for profitable investment.

Where Red Death Laid Its Merciless Hand on Society's Outcasts, Spreading Chaos and Destruction

A front view of the Ohio State Penitentiary in Columbus. The home of Warden Preston F. Thomas is in this section. It was from here that Amanda Thomas, the warden's daughter, took charge of the troubled situation while her father was inside the prison walls aiding prisoners. Warden Thomas is shown in the inset. (Associated Press telephoto.)

Some of the bodies of the more than 300 victims lying on the ground in the penitentiary yards, which resembled an armed camp. Note the prisoners standing about as the work of caring for the dead and smoke victims goes on. Later the convicts raved like maniacs in their cells. (International Newsweek telephoto.)

YOUNG MAXON FACES COURT

New York, April 22.—Confronted by a visit from his father, James M. Maxon, Jr., son of the Rt. Rev. James M. Maxon, bishop-elect of Tennessee, was to appear in Florida Court today to answer a charge of slaying David Paynter, 71, a printer.

Bishop Maxon went to the West Side jail and talked with his son for 15 minutes. The student, 21, visibly moved when he entered the warden's office for the chat, asked affectionately for his mother and seemed cheered when he was led back to his cell.

The bishop on his departure assured his certainty in his son's innocence, and remarked that "my man is a fool who will drink this liquor nowadays."

Meanwhile, Paynter, whom the youth is accused of having beaten to death with a chair in the rooming house at 550 West End ave., was buried after funeral services attended by 40 members of the New York Printing Pressmen's Union.

James J. Conway, president of the organization of which Paynter was once a member, linked prohibition conditions with the killing, saying, "A more direct result of the 'mobile experiment'."

Bishop Maxon, however, said that after the son had awaited his visit throughout the regular visiting hours, accompanying him to the jail was Miles Walsh, associate of Martin W. Littleton, counsel for the youth. It was the first meeting of the father and son since the student's arrest.

The son was called from his cell and openly displayed his emotion as he came down the stairway to find his father waiting.

They embraced and the first question the youth asked was, "How is mother?"

He appeared to brighten almost at once as his father asked him she was bearing up well.

A Record Breaking Event

Planned to break more records in value giving than the Europa, Capt. Hawks or even "Lindy" did in speed. An event of more importance in the lives of New Englanders than the feats of any of these champions.

Could Hardly Do Her Work
When I started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I could hardly do my housework. I was so nervous and weak from Change of Life that I had to lie down very often. I heard about the Vegetable Compound in a booklet which was left at my door. I am doing all the housework for a family of four and it keeps me on my feet. I have taken six bottles and I have gained strength and flesh.—Minnie E. Hicks, R. R. 2, Rahulu, Indiana.

ACT TO REMOVE PRESBYTERIAN WEDDING BAN

Philadelphia, April 22 (AP).—The special commission on marriage, divorce and remarriage of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. will present to the general assembly in Cincinnati June 2 a new definition of marriage, based on an exhaustive study of the entire subject of sex relationships.

The report of the commission, published today in the official Blue Book of the denomination, contains definite recommendations for the elimination from the confession of faith of the objection to the marriage of Protestants to Roman Catholics and of all other references to "Papists." Henceforth, the commission would have it that marriage between "all sorts of people" is lawful but that it is the duty of Christians to marry "only in the Lord."

Contraceptives, used under medical advice, the report finds acceptable, but it adds:

"A baby in the home now and then is a splendid diversion for those suffering from an uneventful married life."

In discussing divorce and remarriage, the report says:

"It is incumbent upon the church to deplore, most earnestly, the laxity of divorce which prevails today, and especially to deplore the deliberate steps taken by married people to secure divorce so as to remarry."

Young Plan Bank Starts Its Work

Boston, April 22 (AP).—Work of the Bank of International Settlements, set up under the Young plan to help the payment of German reparations payments, commenced today when its directors and nine financial and economic consultants met to elect a president and general manager and to take preliminary steps for actually opening the institution.

GIRL UNAFRAID

By the autumn of that year, The Caprice was living up to its name. Jeannette was tiring of her latest toy. "I simply can't stand being tied down to regular hours," she informed Ardeth frostily. "I never stand it, even as a child. They had to take me out of school on that account. I'm too nervous."

This from Jeannette, who never appeared at the shop until she was then only to give a few nervous and totally unnecessary orders on her way to some bridge tea, caused Ardeth to turn hurriedly away to hide the smile trembling about her mouth.

The responsibility of The Caprice had long since ceased to weigh on Jeannette—except in her imagination.

Ardeth it was who did the buying of the stock as well as the selling now. Ardeth the first to appear in the morning, the last to leave at night. Now that she had left Ken, this small store had come to mean the dearest thing in life to her. It put purpose and order in her days. It had become a means of livelihood, it had become the sign of her independence.

She noticed the signs of restlessness on Jeannette's part.

"Suppose Jeannette should sell out to someone," she thought. "I can't imagine it. I don't want to mean the dearest thing in life to her. It put purpose and order in her days. It had become a means of livelihood, it had become the sign of her independence."

Tom returned quietly. "I just told you—buy it."

Her eyes fastened on the steady brown ones regarding her across the table. "That's sensible! I haven't a cent—"

"You have all you need."

Her face went pink. "You mean—"

"Why not? This is a business proposition. You said yourself the place was a money maker. I'm looking for an investment—Now wait, keep your shirt on! I'm serious. What do you think Jeannette would take for a down payment?"

He drew out a pencil and poised it on the table.

The crisp business tone, the two hours they lingered at the table, the headsets of the hovering waiter. The cloth was covered with figures when they finally rose to leave, and Ardeth's face was radiant.

"You look like a little kid that just found her Christmas sock!"

"I love it, Tom. You come to love a place when you are growing every day. Of course Jeannette was responsible for it, but the right people coming there. But she's going on her own now. If she won't come in more a year I should keep it going—And—"

Her cheeks were flushed, but they glowed with earnestness.

Looking at her across the table like this, Tom reflected that it was a long time since he had seen her so alive. After the staggering blow of Ken's marriage she had seemed to withdraw from the world. Tom mentally blamed the frivolous little shop.

"Look here—why don't you buy it and run it yourself?" he asked suddenly.

"She flashed a smile at him. "Thanks for the compliment! My savings would just about pay for a living salary for a month! Oh, well, there's nothing I can do. When Jeannette's tired of a thing, she's tired of a thing. And maybe it isn't so black as it seems. She might sell out to someone who'd want me to keep on managing the place. Maybe I won't have to give the darning place up."

"You don't have to give it up. Tom returned quietly. "I just told you—buy it."

Her eyes fastened on the steady brown ones regarding her across the table. "That's sensible! I haven't a cent—"

perhaps the hundredth time the little pointed chin which would just fill the hollow of a man's palm.

"You modern girls beat the Dutch! Here I am, waiting like old faithful Dobbin, to give you my worldly goods in front of a person whenever you give the word, and the most I can get is to be the silent partner in a business deal."

"You should be thankful that I leave you a little money and a little liberty instead of taking all of both."

Tom opened his hand reluctantly. "You're the doctor! Whatever you say goes. But if you want to increase the partnership—"

She laughed with determined gusto and waved him a defiant goodbye as she ran up the steps. But her heart was sore with pity. Why was life like that? Why must one hurt another, unwillingly? First, Ken. Now this good fellow—

"The words were a whip now—striking out into the outer shop to whip the blood from a girl's face, to lash pain and a swift, will rage into Ardeth's heart. Copyright, 1930, King Feature synd., Inc. (To Be Continued)

'Big 5' Powers Sign Naval Pact Which Goes Now to League for O. K.

Their delegations followed. Representatives of the British dominions also signed.

Regina Walczuk, a former prime minister of Japan, and those of the Tokyo delegation who have worked with long enough the three months and one day of official negotiations, were the last of the five powers' representatives to affix their signatures.

The signature ceremony which marked the culmination of the greatest disarmament reduction conference of all time took place shortly after midnight in the grand palace of St. James.

The setting was one for an art. The final plenary session of the treaty being held in the Queen Anne drawing room, with its rich red wood paneling and the long line of the portraits of a long line of English kings.

Fourteen weeks ago the conference was ushered into being in the midst of a dense fog which pervaded the House of Lords in a ghost-like blanket.

There was that same fog early today, but shortly after the peace session convened, the April sunshine burst through the mist and gladdened the golden turrets of Queen Anne's favorite room.

WHAT THEY SIGNED.
The treaty signed definitely limits, in all categories, the number of ships, the tonnage of ships, the armament of ships, and the maximum range of guns.

France and Italy could not compromise their differences and so today withdrew only to other sessions of the pact, which, important enough to themselves, prescribes a capital ship holiday, limitation on size of submarines, humanization of the use, and record agreement on other technical points.

The conference then adjourned at 1:15 p. m.

In the three months and one day of long negotiation, the pact was many times on the verge of complete failure.

Col. Stimson's signature was affixed at 12:45 p. m., after the national delegations had made their closing speeches.

Col. Stimson's signature was affixed at 12:45 p. m., after the national delegations had made their closing speeches.

PACT TO LEAGUE NOW.
At the outset of his talk, Mr. MacDonald said there were several preliminary matters to be settled, the first of them being a question of transmitting the pact to the League of Nations.

His motion was carried. He said that all who participated in the conference realized that numerous dangers confronted the nations because of arms race.

"We have stepped the replacement of battleships," he declared, "and have ordered their removal. We have proved how, when the world is in a state of peace, the arms race can be removed."

PLEA TO LATIN NATIONS.
Having his voice in a generous manner, Mr. MacDonald appealed to the public opinion in Europe to align itself behind the pact.

He said that the pact was a step toward the work of the conference, "referring to the Anglo-French negotiations to effect some limitation arrangement between them."

He mentioned the British-American-Japanese agreement as one of the major accomplishments and remarked that the European situation would be harder to resolve itself but that he hoped that would be effected.

Open Evening by Appointment

Turning directly toward the American delegation and seeming to be talking straight to Senators Robinson and Reed, he commented on the safeguarding clause of the treaty by the three uniting nations only increase their name by the building program of a non-signatory nation.

"I hope it will never be used," he said. "The British government must and will strive with might and main to see that it is absolutely unnecessary."

The speaker then turned to Europe to make further disarmament possible.

Col. Stimson reiterated the goal and international friendship which brought the conference into being and expressed confidence that the world was progressing definitely toward an ever-increasing security with ever-increasing disarmament.

STIMSON LAUDS PACT
Col. Stimson emphasized that the treaty was a landmark in the history of nations upon a fair and lasting basis, at the same time establishing "our naval relationship with our good neighbor across the Pacific."

He noted his belief that the possibility of future progress rests as much on the spirit of fair dealing and good will shown in the treaty negotiations as on its actual accomplishments.

Aristide Briand, French delegation head, speaking after Col. Stimson, reiterated France's expressed stand, that she had her whole program for peace on the contrary of the League of Nations, the League pact and the Treaty of Paris.

Mr. Walatinski, speaking for Japan, expressed his country's happiness at being able to do her part in carrying out the spirit of the Kellogg pact.

"A great and unprecedented thing has been accomplished," he said. "What was sworn at Washington has been signed at London."

He related Japan's policy of maintaining minimum naval strength for defensive purposes in the east and added:

"Japan has gladly agreed to the present treaty."

ITALY WANTS REDUCTION
Admiral Giuseppe Saverio, speaking for Italy, who is at Rome, made a plea for the reduction of armaments to "the lowest possible level."

"It appears clearer every day," he said.

HEFLIN OPENS URGES REVERE CAMPAIGN 5-CENT FARE

Washington, April 22 (AP)—Senator Thomas J. Hefflin (D., Ala.) opened his campaign for reelection at a "difference in dependent" today with a speech in the Senate attacking President Coolidge who have opposed him.

He charged John J. Raskin for one Republican and one Democratic national chairman, but in Roman Catholic Republics, the Roman Catholic party headed by Al Smith, in the United States.

POOL FOR PRINCE
London, April 22 (AP)—An official swimming pool in the garden of the Prince of Wales was today opened by the Prince of Wales, at Sandringham, Norfolk.

AS STIMSON SIGNED
By a moment Col. Stimson paused and looked across the table into the eyes of Mr. MacDonald.

A smile of pleasure lighted up the prime minister's face and his lips moved slightly, perhaps in an unheeded whisper.

Then Stimson dipped a golden pen into the inkstand which Queen Anne herself had used and deliberately wrote his name, rising to give way to others of his delegation.

He carefully carried the pen away with him. The slender shaft of gold was, among the other used by the entire American delegation, excepting Senator Robinson, who pulled his fountain pen from his pocket and used it to affix his signature. The pen was given from Stimson to each member of his delegation. He also gave MacDonald a similar pen.

Ambassador Dawson, Secretary Adams, Senator Robinson, Senator Reed and Ambassadors Gibson and Morrow quickly followed Stimson. Ambassador Morrow, who is the smallest of the American delegation, was almost lost in the great stuffed chair on which all sat to sign.

And thus these passed into the pages of history the naval conference.

London, April 22 (AP)—Official farewells were exchanged between Premier J. Ramsay MacDonald and the American delegates, to the naval conference at 2:30 p. m. (London time). The American delegates called on the premier at 10 Downing st.

Before entraining for Southampton to board ship for home, MacDonald and Secretary Stimson signed mutual cameraderie by orally exchanging their first good-byes.

17 Seek to Adopt Baby Girl Found on Doorstep

April 22 (AP)—Seventeen babies are seeking to adopt a three-month-old girl now at Lowell City Hospital as a city charge.

Three weeks ago the baby was found in a C. at doorway. She was taken to the hospital to await possible abandonment. Since that time 17 persons have called and asked for permission to adopt her. State laws, however, compel the new mothers to give her over under the supervision of the state board of charities.

33 Pianos to Loan FREE!

Due to additional shipments from the home office and release of additional stock in our Boston store we have added 18 more pianos to the sale, making a total of 33 pianos (Grand, Players and Uprights, both new and used instruments) to place in homes of Boston and vicinity and they may be used until we need them—which will be an indefinite time. A number of the company's Norfolk, Richmond and Longbeach stocks. In stead of storing these pianos in depreciable value we are ready to take the loss now and have priced these instruments at greatly reduced figures and anyone contemplating the purchase of a piano in the next few months cannot afford to miss this opportunity. All pianos not sold outright will be placed in the homes of families who are interested in owning a piano in the immediate future, and for the valuable advertising we receive by having a good family use them. We reserve the right to select the homes in which these pianos are to be placed.

Many radios, photograph combinations, photographs and records will be sold at prices almost unbelievable

No cartage, no rent or any expense whatever. You must call at the store to make your selection. There are no strings to this offer, which comes but once in a lifetime.

The OFFICE WIFE

The Most Discussed Novel of the Day by FAITH BALDWIN

A Story of Some Folks Who Might Be in Your Office—or Your Husband's

What Has Gone Before

The employees of the Boston Advertising Agency, nine stories above the street, were loyal to their chief, and it was understandable why. Janet Andrews, who was his secretary, had developed a case of nerves, and he was forced to grant her a week of absence. A later result in her being supplied by a bright, capable, and somewhat new girl named Anne.

CHAPTER IX

Mr. Eaton pondered further, for so they were the combination of emotional motivation, propriety and chance, but their secretaries are selected with a knowledge of certain definite needs—needs which do not alter the years.

As he had said, Anne was becoming invaluable to him. He marvelled how well and how swiftly she had fitted in; how easily she had taken Miss Andrews' place, little by little he had turned over to her the duties which Miss Andrews had grown into during her long years of service. Anne now attended to his personal bills, kept track of his club dues and his life insurance premiums. She was in communication with his brokers; she kept a separate engagement pad for his social activities and never failed to remind him of them.

Yes, she was invaluable. There were other things with which, gradually, he might trust her. But if, as Jameson had said, he could be assured that she would leave him, what was the use?

The following morning he asked her:

"Are you going to be busy Saturday afternoon, Miss Murdoch?"

"No, Mr. Eaton."

As a matter of fact she had a matinee engagement with Betty Howard, but Betty would understand.

"It's not the office," he told her, "I shall need you, but," he went on as Anne waited, aware of disappointment, "Mrs. Eaton is in a bit with one of her charity affairs. She asked me last night if she might borrow you. Miss Andrews helped her out occasionally in such matters."

"I'll be glad to," said Anne.

She afterward confessed to meet that she was curious. She welcomed the opportunity to meet Linda Eaton.

Meets Wife

Anne Sent For in Mrs. Eaton's Car

On Saturday Anne and her notebook were called for at the office by Linda's car. Anne waited in the library for some time before her employer's wife came in. She looked about her gravely; it was a lovely room, restful, hospitable.

Anne's heart ached. Here were the things she loved, beautiful material things, valuable to her not for the luxury, the expenditure they represented, but for the satisfaction they afforded her senses and spirit. These were the things she longed for and would never attain.

Yet why shouldn't she attain them in a comparative measure? If she could ever have a little place of her own somewhere, which would hold the things she would save up for.

Her brows drew together. Lately there had been a loud explosion in the brick house side of town. For Kathleen, now a decorative member of the "Sky Girl" company, had left home. She had explained patiently that it was hard for her to travel back and forth for matinees and evening performances. So she had gone to live with three other girls in the company,

Daily Health Hint for Readers

A child's appetite, unlike an adult's, cannot be taken as a sure indicator of what not to eat. Children will eat too much of what they like and not enough of what they dislike. But parents are wise to force a child to eat what he or she has a cultural aversion for.

STOCK MARKET RALLIES AFTER NEW DROP

By SEANIA W. FROST

The stock market today showed a rally after a sharp drop yesterday. The Dow Jones Industrial Average closed at 11,111.11, up 11.11 points from 11,100.00. The volume of trading was heavy, with over 100 million shares changing hands.

SUPPORT IN EVIDENCE

The rally was supported by a number of factors, including the announcement of a new government bond issue and the expectation of a rise in interest rates.

READING SETS LOW

The market's reaction to the news was swift, with many stocks reaching new highs. The rally was particularly strong in the financial and industrial sectors.

38TH PRISON DISASTER VICTIM DIES; NEW FIRES ARE FEARED

THREATS OF OUTBREAK QUIET

Serving of Coffee to Surviving Convicts Helps to Prevent Fresh Disorder in Ohio

Columbus, O., April 23 (AP).—The death toll in the Ohio penitentiary fire disaster was increased today when the body of a prisoner was recovered from the ruins of the prison hospital.

Warden Preston E. Thomas was summoned to appear before the coroner's jury today to explain the cause of the disaster. The jury will be held in session today to hear testimony from the witnesses.

What arrangements were made to handle the fire? What equipment was available to fight the fire? What information he had received as to the cause of the blaze that sent dense clouds of smoke rising through the cells where the victims were locked in their cells?

A swirl of unrest among the thousands of convicts in the penitentiary disappeared today. The fact that no more convicts had been killed in the disaster was a relief to the prisoners.

NEW FIRE FEARED. The fire in the Ohio penitentiary was not believed to be a fresh outbreak, but a continuation of the fire that started in the prison hospital.

Owners, New Buyers, Prospects call it Value of Values

The greatest appeal of the New Essex Challenger is dollar-for-dollar value. That is the verdict of owners, new buyers and prospects, in the widest campaign of personal demonstration ever conducted for any automobile.

What Men Say:

"I bought Essex because it stands out in its field with absolute distinction of value, appearance and performance."

"I want a car to be proud of—and Essex is it. It is the master in get-away, roadability and hill-climbing. Its economy is wonderful. Its appearance as smart as any money can buy."

What Women Say:

"My car must be as much a matter of pride as my clothes, my appearance or my home. Essex satisfies that requirement with the smartest of looks and performance. For me there is no other choice."

"Just as proud of my New Essex Challenger as of a $3,000 car I also bought. It has every performance requirement. It is easy to drive and the most comfortable car I ever owned."

We invite you to drive the New Essex Challenger. And we invite you especially to examine the fine quality way it is built—its rich upholstery, its individual fittings and hardware, its careful workmanship in every detail. For even those who bought it chiefly for supreme performance, are captivated by its notable beauty of design, its luxurious appointment and well-earned distinction. It is the crowning value of the greatest dollar-for-dollar value.

MUST YOU SAY "May I" TO YOUR FEET?

Women who wear Arch Preserver Shoes need never consult their feet to see if they will permit them to do this or that

They decide to go shopping, or dancing, or walking, or working without ever giving a thought to feet—because they know from experience that feet in Arch Preserver Shoes cooperate to the fullest.

They know that no normal activity will tire them, for Arch Preserver Shoes provide bare-foot freedom. Muscles are free for vigorous action. Unrestricted blood vessels enjoy healthy active circulation.

Bones are not squeezed together. Nerves are not rasped.

The special features of Arch Preserver Shoes have been tested in actual use by more women than any other shoe of similar purpose. And none can give the comfort and ease of the genuine Arch Preserver Shoe.

Try a pair so that you may know from your own experience just how comfortable a shoe can be

You will not have to sacrifice style, because Arch Preserver Shoes are as graceful and smart as shoes that have nothing to offer but style.

AUTOMOBILE NEWS

ELKS-VIKING TOUR STARTS APRIL 28

A message of prosperity and goodwill will be carried throughout the country by four Viking deluxe convertible coupes which have been selected by the R. P. O. E. as the official cars of the Elks-Mazda-Viking transcontinental prosperity tour. The tour starts on the Pacific coast April 28 and will conclude July 6 at Atlantic City, where the national convention of Elks will open the following day.

The Vikings were selected for this trip particularly for their sturdiness and endurance characteristics, as the tour will be made on a rigid schedule which does not permit of the slightest variation or delay. The specified mileage must be made each day regardless of road or weather conditions.

Each of the four Vikings will be driven by a representative of the Elks, who will carry a message of importance to each of the 1500 lodges of the Elks visited during the tour. This message relates to the increasing prosperity of the country and will be repeated to the 1500 lodges of the Elks visited during the tour.

The Elks-Viking cars present an unusually attractive appearance, being finished in special colors and equipment. The body of the Vikings are finished in white with purple trim on the fenders, wheels and disc springs. Each of the Vikings is equipped with a Delco automotive radio receiving set. The chassis of these cars contain five tubes and are located under the hood of the Vikings. A low swift, tuning dial and volume control are located on the right side of the instrument panel. The antenna is concealed in the top of the car.

NEW GRAHAMS WELL RECEIVED

One clear-cut indication of the increasingly healthy state of the automobile market is the enthusiastic reception which is being accorded the new Graham Six models throughout the country. Sales in quantities which are unobtainable in the past are being reported by dealers from distributors and dealers who have the new models on display. The degree of public interest that has seldom been matched in the past is being evidenced in the very fact that the new Graham Six models are being sold in quantities which are unobtainable in the past.

One primary factor responsible for this remarkable manifestation of interest in the new Graham Six models, says Mr. Valpey, is the fact that the new Graham Six models are being sold in quantities which are unobtainable in the past. The new Graham Six models are being sold in quantities which are unobtainable in the past.

Auto Accidents Declared "Lapses"

According to the superintendent of the State Highway Patrol of Pennsylvania, all automobile accidents can be avoided. He claims that none of the 8857 crashes in the state that year would have occurred "had the driver or driver concerned been mentally on the job. Each of these pile-ups or crashes is a monument to a momentary or perhaps habitual lapse on the part of a human being."

Renew Oil Filter Every 8000 Miles

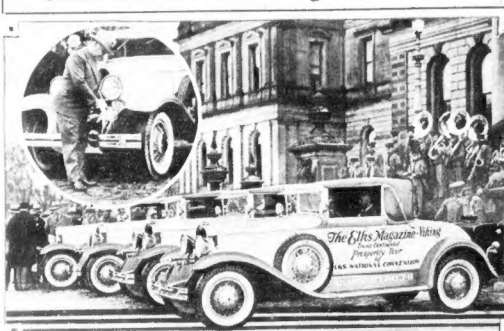

The oil filter cartridge, which removes carbon and dirt from the engine oil when the particles are too small to be caught in the screen surrounding the oil pump, should be renewed every 8000 miles.

Any water or dirt which the gasoline filter has removed from the fuel can be seen in the glass bowl and should be removed. Never allow this filter to become more than half full of water.

One Service Station to Every 258 Cars

Throughout the country there is an average of one service station to every 258 motor vehicles. This statement is based on motor vehicle registrations of 24,156,000 and a total of 56,747 service stations and repair shops.

NEED BRAKES TO FINDS SERVICE A MATCH SPEED BIG FACTOR

"Traffic safety demands brake quality sufficient to match the project-like getaway of the modern automobile," says G. R. Allen, chief engineer of Dodge Brothers. "In fact," he continued, "maximum acceleration cannot be used while driving in traffic when it is most needed; if the deceleration is not in direct proportion."

Acceleration gains have been made by the use of high compression motors; by the employment of eight-cylinder engines furnishing a great amount of torque at low speeds and also by means of improved cam shapes, maintaining a high combustion chamber design. Improvements in this direction are still going on and with the aid of engineers throughout the industry towards the use of larger engines furnish greater power-weight ratio. It is likely that even the present acceleration rate will be exceeded.

Obviously greater attention must be given to braking efficiency. Four-wheel brakes have afforded a tremendous improvement over the old two-wheel types. But now that we have four-wheel brakes, the stopping power is being applied to all the surface that it can be applied to. There is only one way that a further gain can be made and that is to make certain that each of the four wheels is doing its full share of the work needed to bring the car to a stop.

Odd Noises in Car Are Clue to Trouble

Though the engine may be silent when it starts and refuses to start when it often makes odd noises when it is running, it is likely that the trouble, according to the free emergency road service of the California State Automobile Association, is a snapping noise at the starter.

A short vibration also would not cause any such noise. Either the insulation would start burning or the current would be cut out by the four or circuit breaker.

Odd Combinations on License Plates

The automobile license plates in Pennsylvania which bear no more than five characters display many amusing combinations. Among the odd ones are "12345", "234" and "PA". The "OH", "12" and "12" which is attached to the license of an automobile in Chambersburg.

City Shows Choice for Motorcycles

Berlin, April 23. This city has some motorcycle enthusiasts, these being 37,000 of the former and 26,000 of the latter registered on February 1.

Hint on Wrenches

All car owners should know where adjustable wrenches can be used. Always try the adjustment of all one first. If none fit, then use the monkey wrench.

Buyers of commercial cars and trucks always seriously consider the matter of authorized factory service facilities before definitely deciding on the type of equipment they will use, according to C. H. Leonard, general manager, Boston Whippet-Knight Corp.

More than ever before the matter of speedy and reliable service has come to the forefront. It is recognized and efforts have resulted in all other things equal, in the business going to the organization that has provided adequate facilities in all sections of the country.

Truck operators state that profit from the operation of their vehicles depends on the ability to give them and their ability to have them repaired when necessary. This of course means that such service stations would have to be completely stocked with parts from the factory to be used for replacement where necessary. It is pointed out that under layup for repairs or long delays where it is necessary to wait for parts from the factory, represents a net loss to the operator for every hour his car is out of commission.

Great Power in De Soto Six Engine

A miniature tornado is set in motion in an automobile engine every time the driver "steps on the gas." It is a small tornado in dimensions but a lively one in velocity and when properly controlled has much to do with economical operation and the development of engine power.

The little tornado is caused by the "breathing" of the engine, the air that is drawn into the combustion chamber through the carburetor on the intake stroke of the piston. From the gas it forms the fuel mixture.

In the famous De Soto Six engine close attention has been given to working out easy breathing and an ideal fuel mixture, with even distribution to all cylinders.

Autos May Safely Hit New Sign Post

A new type of sign post has been designed in England which, when crashed into by an automobile, will not damage the car. It is weakened at a spot a short distance from the ground and offers no resistance when the car strikes it.

Under-Inflation Peril of Tires

Rough roads are hard on under-inflated tires. The toughness of the high-grade rubber tire is first constantly, with the result that the tread wears to a considerable degree in sidewalls.

OAKLAND TESTS SPEEDWAY FOR SILVER BULLET

An Oakland eight coupe, while being used as the official car during the attempt of Ray Don to break the world's automobile record at Daytona Beach, Fla., traveled one and one-half miles over the measured course at an average speed of 80.78 miles per hour, says F. C. Shiley, district manager Oakland Motor Co.

The coupe was driving the length of the ten-mile race course to test its surface. W. D. Edmonds, member of the American Automobile Association Contest Board, riding in the coupe timed the car over its mile and a half trip, using a split second traffic watch. The Oakland was piloted by Ray Priest, an automobile writer who had driven from Detroit to "cover" Ray Don's record.

At the time the 80.78 miles per hour was reached Edmonds was desirous of testing the smoothness of the beach preparatory to letting the English racing champion, who has 4000 horsepower machine on an attempt on the record of 231.92 miles per hour.

Daytona Beach, claimed to be the only stretch of its kind in the world, was lined out as smooth as glass by a heavy northeast storm. The night before the Oakland tested the beach a mild northwester had blown, and at high tide the waves had reached clear up to the sand dunes dragging back the fine white sand to give the beach its unmatchable smoothness.

At the eighty-mile speed test low spots were felt as the car traveled over them. These spots looked to the eye to be perfectly smooth. Only when found by the Oakland Eight at 80 miles an hour were they revealed to be there.

Invest in Dependability

A distinguishing feature of the Nash "400" is its dependability. Nash engineers and Nash craftsmen have designed and built the car for permanence and long life.

Only the finest of materials that money can buy are deemed good enough for Nash.

And Nash precision standards of manufacture are most exacting.

That is why the Nash "400" is such a sound investment. That is why it repays its purchase price more richly in finer performance, in greater comfort, and in longer dependability. "400" is its dependability.

Nash quality standards of engineering and manufacturing are identical throughout the complete range of Twin-Ignition Eights, Twin-Ignition Sixes, and Single Sixes.

Here is the new automobile carrier built to comply with the present highway laws within the various states through which it travels. The chassis was designed by the General Motors Co. and the superstructure by its owners, the University Overland Express, Inc.

NASH COMPANY ENLARGES ITS SALES PLANT

Another notable expansion in Boston's automobile district is announced with the taking over by the Nash New England Co. distributor of Nash cars, of the entire building at 630 Commonwealth ave., adjoining its present commodious offices and service headquarters at 640. This addition has been further to improve its facilities and to accommodate the motoring public.

With this latest increase the company occupies the entire block of three stories and basement fronting on Commonwealth ave., also a three-story and basement building immediately in the rear on Huntington St. and likewise, for the present, the building at 674 Commonwealth ave.

In addition, the company has a car receiving depot in Waltham, so that, all told, it occupies over 170,000 square feet of floor space, an area as large as that of many automobile factories a few years ago.

The acquisition of the new building, and its connection with the old establishment, enables the Nash New England Co. to concentrate its sales activity, including both new and used cars, under one roof. The new building, with the exception of the third floor, will be devoted exclusively to used car sales.

The third floor will be added to the already spacious service station of the company.

GIRL UNAFRAID

By Gladys Johnson

CHAPTER 40

Never before had Ardeth known pains like this. These, coming in waves, sweeping over her like a hot wind, leaving a desert in its wake.

"Janette's voice, changing in his ears. Could he have a child?"

She pulled off her hat. Her coat valued to a mirror and rearranged her hair. Her hands were shaking.

To the white-faced reflection which looked back from the mirror she whispered with stiff lips:

"What is it, what is it to you?"
"What can you do about it?" His wife . . .

Forcing back seething tears. Trying to swallow the painful lump in her throat.

Not even that time when she crawled in the church and watched Ken married had been more than this. Nothing of the romantic girl about Ardeth in this moment. She was all primitive woman—savages despairing.

"No!" she was crying wildly in her heart. "No—she has no right.
My child . . . mine . . ."

Later the hot, pale girl died.
The wind had blown itself out leaving dreadful stillness in the wake. Deep, buried resentment poisoning her heart. . . Hatred even against the child of the future.

A change in Ardeth's dailiness that day. Unexpected, some ventage of hope had remained. Perhaps Ken was not forever lost to her. People who were married sometimes disagreed, separated — married others and were happy.

But now she felt that he was truly lost to her. She must go on alone. Along the road they had hoped to travel together.

Always a shadow underlying the golden eyes now. A touch of grim dignity in her manner.

Many noticed it, and put it down to the responsibility of managing the shop. For Ardeth had bought The Caprice.

Janette had been entranced at the idea of getting rid of the baby so easily. She was entirely engrossed in her latest whim—a Poser Club of earnest females who planned to tour Europe and visit the shrines of great poets. Not that Janette had ever written verse.

But then, neither had the other members. But they intended to do some day when they had the time. And just now the club was not its purpose in reaching Janette to adopt a calm and detached attitude in mundane things, and to be exasperatingly placid and highminded on her frequent visits to Certe.

At the close of a golden October day the deal was struck. Tom, who had come in at the last moment, leaned back on his elbows and watched the girl.

The copper light of sunset struck through the one narrow window and turned Ardeth's hair to rusty gold. Her eyes were glowing to paler as she looked fondly about her.

"My very own . . ." she said softly. Then, in a tone grown more practical, "The first thing I'm going to do is give up the Smokerie. I've always hated it.
It just encourages gossip. Some of those women get together and shop up reputations as though they were shopping beads. You should have heard Maids Divant and that? Mrs. Curtis in her sweater, skittering over the latest tips."

"I hate the rotten magazine!"
Tom put in heatedly.

"It's never going to come in here again!" Ardeth's tone was grim. She was remembering the costumeless notice which had appeared about herself and Ken.

"I don't care if it loses trade. I'm going to give up the Smokerie!" She kept that resolution. The back room reverted to type. Down came the hangings of the Oriental carpet. It became Ardeth's living quarters.

This was part of her program of strict economy. What she saved by giving up her hotel room played a large share in paying Ah Ling's large share in paying Ah Ling's salary each month.

It was no hardship to live in back of the shop, close to all she held dear in the world. The couch seemed as her bed. The one window looking on the narrow alley admitted air, if not light.

Tom scowled on the arrangement.

"Good Lord! It's worse than the maid's room at my sister's.
Her room is small, but it gets sun and air. Don't be stubborn, Ardeth. Let me pay Ah Ling's salary and get an apartment."

"Please remember, you're supposed to be the silent partner in this firm—decidedly silent!"
"But Ardeth—" Tom protested and his face was awful.

"Gosh—just thinking of you living in this dump keeps me from having any fun at all! I can afford it—and what good is all this lousy money piling up in the bank? Don't you know that money's no good to me if I can't buy a little comfort for you?"

There was a note in his voice which warned the girl that another Tom's periodic proposals were near and she backed away in quick alarm, shaking her head violently.

"No! No! No! I know what I'm doing. I have a system all set out. And if you're so fit on doing something for me come down there, could even hear their reformist speeches through the flimsy stillness."

It worried Tom to think of her down there in the deserted business area. Worried Mary Eastwood too.
Mary came down and used up much eloquent reasoning trying to make Ardeth change her mind.

"You could be murdered and none of us would know a thing about it until Ah Ling came to open up the shop in the morning!" she said severely.

"Time enough then, Mary darling!" the girl replied lightly.
"If I'm thoroughly murdered I really won't care when you learn of it!"

Alfred . . . No, she wasn't afraid.
There was no fear left in her. Hope and fear had been put away with those pink silk things which had been the beginnings of her modest trousseau. Put away with her love and her girlish dreams of happiness.

One did not lie awake at night fearing burglars and killers. One thought only of things to buy and sell. Sometimes, of things that might have been. Of Ken. And of the coming baby.

TROOPER DYING FROM CRASH

Marblehead, April 23.—Patrolman Reginald W. Halstrom, 23, of the Framingham bureau of the State constabulary, is dying at Marblehead hospital of injuries suffered when his motorcycle crashed into a post and then struck a building while he was pursuing a speeding automobile.

Halstrom was taken to the hospital by Dr. J. H. Hagan, a new agent. His name is on the danger list.

3 'M's' All Industry Needs, Says Volica

Chicago, April 23.—AP.—Volica, Greek, director of Zuni City, has three "M's" which he believes are the address of the future.

"All that industry needs," he said, "is mind, money and muscle."

In Old Boston—No. 239

Massachusetts Bicentenary, 1930.

The Catholic Church in Purchase st., shown here, stood near Congress st., on the left, looking from Summer st. It was heavily covered with ivy after the fashion of English churches. A business building, handling hides, stands on the spot occupied by the edifice. The congregation, driven out by business, moved principally to South Boston.

ILEANA 'THRILL CADET' WEDS

New Albany, Ind., April 23 (AP).—Newland Depue Knight, 25, who as a cadet at Culver Academy gave Princess Ileana of Rumania the "greatest thrill" of her American tour on an automobile ride from Indianapolis to Chicago, was on his honeymoon today with his bride, formerly Miss Virginia Bush Voyles, 21.

The princess, on the tour with her mother, Queen Marie, had young Knight as her escort on the trip. She said afterward that she believed, when the incident was heavily covered and that the thrill came when he favored her.

Knight later was a student at Purdue University and now is connected with a Chicago bank.

Giant Airship R-100 Is on Test Flight

Cardington, Eng., April 23 (AP).—The giant airship R-100, which sailed to this country last month, will make her sixth trial flight to-morrow. She has been refitted with the latest type engines. The flight will last 10 to 12 hours.

Visitors to Cardington on Saturday may be able to see the two biggest airships in the world in close proximity to each other. The Zeppelin is due to arrive on a flying visit on Saturday.

PAYNE READY FOR NEW JOB

Greenfield, April 23.—Col. Fredrick H. Payne is awaiting the summons to Washington to assume the duties of assistant secretary of war, his nomination to the post having been sent to the Senate by President Hoover.

"Anyone would feel honored at being selected by President Hoover to take such a departmental post," he said at his home here. "Having indicated my willingness to assume the responsibilities of the office there is nothing for me to do beyond awaiting official notice of the Senate action."

He is prepared, if summoned, to go to Washington at any time, and will then familiarize himself with the duties of the post.

"It would be difficult to leave my home and business interests, but I am prepared to make the sacrifice if I can be of public service."

Former Minister of Finance Jailed

Toronto, April 23 (AP).—Dion Proctor, former minister of finance in 1925, has been jailed on charges of misappropriation of public funds.

Thieves Get $1500 in Gems But Overlook $20,000

Seabrook, April 23.—Careless thieves lost out on $20,000 worth of jewels today after stealing the automobile of Philip Sheridan, proprietor of the Seaw Mountain Inn at Greenville Junction, Me.

The car was stolen from Greenville Junction, Me. Mr. and Mrs. Sheridan and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Crafts, also of Greenville Junction, were visiting friends.

The party were on their way from Florida and had eight bags in the car when it was stolen. When recovered here, abandoned, the car was found undamaged, but two of Sheridan's bags, containing $1500 worth of clothing and jewelry, were missing. However, one bag of the Crafts, containing $20,000 in jewelry, had not even been opened.

Killed by Gas

The accidental detachment of a rubber pipe from a gas heater caused the death by gas poisoning of Patrick Matrucci, 35, laborer, in his room at a lodging house on Pleasant st., Lynn.

When recovered here, abandoned, the car was found undamaged, but two of Sheridan's bags, containing $1500 worth of clothing and jewelry, were missing. However, one bag of the Crafts, containing $20,000 in jewelry, had not even been opened.
